GLENDALE GETS THE 1925 SCIOTS' CONVENTION

This is American Education Week; Help Make Good Americans

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Education Week Means Much To The Youth Of America

THIS week has been set aside as American Education Week and in accordance will be fittingly observed throughout the United States.

In Glendale both the High and the Elementary schools will observe the week with appropriate programs each day, covering the following subjects: For God and Country, Institute, Illiteracy, Community and Physical Education. There is no agency that means so much and has had so large a share in the upbuilding and prosperity of our country as our educational institutions.

The Americanizing of the foreign emigrants through education has been the means of making loyal Americans in the space of only a few years of the newly arrived foreign born residents.

* * *

STATISTICS establish the benefits to be gained through education and the additional gain through higher studies. out of five million men who had received no education other than through a rubbing of shoulders and helf-training 21 attained what the world classes as distinction. With elementary school training the ration increased, and 33 millions, 808 attained distinction and had four times the chance. With High school education out of two million, 1245 atained distinction increasing the opportunity 87 times over no schooling; out of one million receiving technical training 5768 attained distinction, increasing the ratio over 800 times.

* * *

ACCORDING to these figures the man with little or no schooling to speak of is subject to an immense handicap in his endeavor to live his three-score years and ten, for his chance of making a mark is only one in 150,000. It is not possible for all to attend college, but there can be no legitimate reason for not attending High school and, the boy or girl who is considering stopping school before graduating from High school is adding a handicap which will be felt every day of their life.

There can be no argument against going to school, for the weight of evidence proves it to be a gain from most any standpoint. A good many youths think that by going to work early in life they can benefit more in a financial way and get a better start than by delaying. This is not a fact for with the additional schooling the time is soon more than made up. A compilation of earnings of two groups of young men for a period of seven and eleven years, respectively, demonstrates the argument from a financial standpoint.

* * *

THE BOYS who furthered their education by attending High school earned a total of $7337.-50 per boy in seven years while those who had only an elementary school education earned but $5112.-50 each in eleven years. This shows that the youth with a High school education earned nearly fifty per cent more money and worked four years less time. By taking a check of the later years the ratio of earnings will undoubtedly increase many fold.

* * *

MANY MEN have made a success of life without much education and are proud of their achievements but any one of them will recommend to the youth the value of the higher education, recognizing the handicaps they have had to overcome and knowing their success in life would have been considerably greater with the foundation of a good education.

MAROON COLORED MERCER STOLEN FROM SALES LOT

Bernard Gilbert this morning reported the theft of a 1917 maroon-colored Mercer touring car from a used-car lot near his home at 1104 South Glendale avenue. He also reported that a clock was stolen from a Cole.

SON BORN TO SERGEANT AND MRS. A. KERNS SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kerns of 1135 Raymond avenue are parents of a son born yesterday. Sergeant Kerns is receiving congratulations at police headquarters.

FRANKLIN CAR IS REPORTED STOLEN

The California Motor Car Exchange, 1313 South Brand boulevard, reports the theft of a Franklin chummy-four roadster.

EDUCATION WEEK PROCLAMATION BY PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

From its earliest beginnings, America has been devoted to the cause of education. This country was founded on the ideal of ministering to the individual. It was realized that this must be done by the institutions of religion and government. In order that there might be a properly educated clergy and well trained civil magistrates, one of the first thoughts of the early settlers was to provide for a college of liberal culture, while for the general diffusion of knowledge, primary schools were established. This course was taken as the necessary requirement of enlightened society.

Such a policy, once adopted, has continued to grow in extent. With the adoption of the federal constitution and the establishment of free government in the states of the union, there was additional reason for broadening the opportunity of education. Our country adopted the principal of self-government by a free people. Those who were worthy of being free, were worthy of being educated. Those who had the duty and responsibility of government, must necessarily have the education with which to discharge the obligations of citizenship. The sovereign had to be educated. The sovereign had become the people. Schools and universities were provided by the various governments, and founded and fostered by private charity, until their buildings dotted all the land.

The willingness of the people to bear the burdens of maintaining these institutions, and the patriotic devotion of an army of teachers, who, in many cases, might have earned larger incomes in other pursuits, have made it possible to accomplish results with which we may well be gratified. But the task is not finished; it has only been begun.

We have observed the evidences of a broadening vision of the whole educational system. This has included a recognition that education must not end with the period of school attendance, but must be given every encouragement thereafter. To this end the night schools of the cities, the moonlight schools of the southern Appalachian countries, the extension work of the colleges and universities, the provision for teaching technical, agriculture and mechanical arts, have marked out the path to a broader and more widely diffused national culture. To insure the permanence and continuing improvement of such an educational policy, there must be the fullest public realization of its absolute necessity. Every American citizen is entitled to a liberal education. Without this, there is no guarantee for the permanance of free institutions, no hope of perpetuating self-government. Despotism finds its chief support in ignorance. Knowledge and freedom go hand in hand.

In order that the people of the nation may think on these things, it is desirable that there should be an annual observance of Educational Week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby proclaim the week beginning on the eighteenth of November, next, as national Education Week, and urge its observance throughout the country. I recommend that the state and local authorities cooperate with the civic and religious bodies to secure its most general and helpful observance, for the purpose of more liberally supporting and more effectively improving the educational facilities of our country.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE, in the city of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and forty-eighth.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

By the President:
CHARLES E. HUGHES,
Secretary of State.

TUESDAY CLUB'S SOCIETY CIRCUS MADE OVER $3000

With returns incomplete, over $3,000 was cleared at the Society Circus given Friday and Saturday by the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale. This amount will be increased considerably when the Ford automobile, which was won by ticket No. 3689, held by Mrs. Jamieson of North Glendale and was turned back to the club by her, is sold.

The big event closed Saturday night with an auction conducted in the auditorium of the club house and a dancing party given by the Shakespeare section. A crowd of over 2,000 people came and went during the evening, a big attraction being the announcement of the winners of the various prizes in addition to seeing one of the popular motion picture stars, Miss Ruth Roland. Among the articles on which opportunities were sold were:

Ford automobile, drawing made by Miss Ruth Roland, won by Mrs. Jamieson.

Mah jongg set, won by Mrs. H. Gorman of 204-A West Chestnut street.

Oil painting donated by Mrs. Julius Nichols and displayed at Ye Old Book shop, won by ticket No. 3. If not claimed will go to holder of second ticket drawn, No. 107.

Lamp at arts and crafts section booth, won by Mrs. W. B. Kelly.

Hope chest by ticket No. 101. If not claimed will be awarded to holder of second ticket drawn, No. 342, Mrs. Foor of 618 North Maryland avenue.

Canary bird and cage won by Mary E. Campbell, niece of Mrs. Daniel Campbell.

Dresser scarf and pin cushion at music section booth, won by Mrs. Flint of West Lexington drive.

Pink satin teddy, won by ticket No. 41.

Beaded bag at maids and young matrons' booth, won by Mrs. W. E. Roake.

Ham at cooked food booth won by Mrs. Priaulx.

Picture at handkerchief and holder booth, won by Mrs. Coughlin.

Silk taffeta pillow at arts and crafts booth, won by ticket No. 84.

Silver tea ball, won Dr. C. R. Lusby.

At the doll booth the various dolls were won by the following: Pendroy's doll, W. E. Roake; Webb's doll, Ruth Reed; Fisher doll, Mary June Volk; Jackie Coogan doll, Mrs. Dan Green of Pasadena; Green doll, Lillian Webster; Ruth Roland doll, Miss Ida Waite; Mamma doll, Mrs. June Hammill; miniature theatre stage, Martel McKee.

The hope chest alone cleared $309.50. The chest was donated by the New England Furniture company, a $10 teddy by Pendroy's and members of the courtesy committee filled the chest with articles made by them and also articles donated by the various booths. The dance cleared over $51, music section booth, $87.25. A complete detailed report as to the amounts made at the other booths will be announced later.

HENRY HENDERSON SPEAKER FOR CHEST

He Is Y. M. C. A. Secretary; Will Tell of His Belief in Chest

Officials of Glendale's Community Welfare Chest announce that Henry Henderson, secretary of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. has been secured for the leading speaker tonight at the Community Chest mass meeting to be held in the auditorium of Glendale high at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Henderson is distinguished as an orator and has had a great deal of experience with community chests in the east. His theme will be "Why I Believe in the Community Chest." There will be a good musical program which will include community singing led by "France" Haney.

W. E. Hewitt will preside and A. W. Tower, chairman of the campaign committee, will give final instructions to captains and workers. At the close of the meeting literature and blanks will be distributed among the workers who are all expected to be present. There is need of volunteer workers and all persons interested in the chest movement are invited to attend.

MULTIPLE LISTING WOULD NOT DOWN

Regional Conference Kept Up Discussion in the Closing Hour

Although the discussion on multiple listing was supposed to have been ended at noon at the realtors' district conference at the Tuesday Afternoon club on Saturday, it was continued by general desire until about 3:30 o'clock of the afternoon session. Many important features in connection with the "service" were brought out by H. E. Nightingale of the Southwest realty board of Los Angeles, who, after explaining the service in detail, answered numerous questions.

It was decided to put the verbatim report of all the discussion on the multiple listing in "California Real Estate" and later to publish it in book form for use by the various boards. The expense of this work was underwritten by a number of the boards represented.

A resolution was passed endorsing the multiple listing groups within the boards rather than insisting that organization adopt the service 100 per cent strong.

On motion of E. P. Hayward of Glendale a resolution was adopted asking every board in the state to conduct an investigation within its own territory to see if every broker, whether or not he be a member of the board, is complying with the state real estate laws.

President Henry Barber of Long Beach suggested that the real estate commissioner at Sacramento be asked to refuse a 1924 license to all agents who have not during 1923 exhibited the proper sign, "Lincensed Real Estate Broker." This was put in the form of a resolution and adopted.

At the close of the meeting it was announced by Glenn R. Willaman, secretary of the state organization, that the total registration at the conference was 230 and that 28 boards were represented. He stated that Glendale, with 74 registrations, was in the lead, and that the next highest were Santa Monica, 31; Torrance 14, and Riverside, 13.

ROSE TOURNAMENT PARADE ROUTE IS CHANGED

This Year, Floats Will Not Pass Through Business District

The Tournament of Roses parade New Year's will not pass through the business district of Pasadena, according to information obtained this morning by E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The parade will form as usual on South Orange Grove avenue and adjoining streets and will march east along Colorado street to Hill avenue.

At Hill avenue instead of turning south as last year, the parade will go north on Hill avenue to East Orange Grove avenue and will there swing back between Lake and Los Robles avenues on that street, where it will disband.

Arrangements have been made to borrow 250 policemen from Los Angeles to assist in controlling the crowds and traffic. It is planned to make all but one of the streets leading to the stadium for the afternoon football games one-way thoroughfares, going toward the Rose Bowl before the game and coming from it afterwards. A number of new streets have been opened to care for the crowds.

DUB HITS TUBBS, ONE WHEEL RUBS

What happens when a "dub" runs into a "tub" was illustroted this morning about 7:30 in a local collision. Thomas Dub of Los Angeles was going west on Los Feliz road and Guy Tubbs of 118 South Everett street was going south on Central avenue. Mr. Dub's machine had its left front wheel broken and a tire blew out. There was other confusion.

GLENDALE SCIOTS WIN GLORY AND HONOR FOR SELVES AT SAN DIEGO

Not Only Does Convention Vote Unanimously to Come to Glendale in 1925, But Sciots' Band Wins Highest Honors

SIX COMPETITORS IN CONTEST FOR TROPHY

Fresno, Which Was Winner at Two Preceding Conventions, Was Second This Year, With Los Angeles Bringing Up the Rear End

H. M. Bennett, Toparch

Ralph E. Murdy, Mazai

Glendale's Sciots, Pyramid 39, has returned with all colors flying, proud not only of having secured the 1925 convention for their home city, but also because the splendid 44-piece band of the pyramid won first prize in the annual contest. The trophy, a silver cup, was at once placed in the window of the Dibbern Jewelry store at 121 North Brand. It is the symbol of victory, first prize in Class A, in a contest against six competitors, one of which was the Fresno Pyramid band which has carried off the trophy for the past two years but was second this year. San Francisco's band was third and Los Angeles came last. Exhibited with the cup is the charter of the local pyramid.

The convention was a great occasion for this lusty infant in the pyramid family and has distinctly put Glendale on the map. Its headquarters, the best at the Grand hotel, was a center of Sciot enthusiasm and the impress it made on the convention was evident when the vote to accept Glendale's convention invitation for 1925 was practically unanimous. In accordance with precedent, the convention goes north next year, to Redding.

In commenting on convention events, Toparch Harry Bennett said: "All praise for the victory won by our 44-piece band should go to Band Manager Russell and to Director Bill Osterman. It will be remembered that when the Glendale Elks' band won the prize at Eureka, Osterman was the leader. It is now up to the Shrine club to organize a band and capture a banner.

"The second day of the convention a large number of members

J. J. GRAF TAKES OUT PERMIT FOR COURT, $100,000

A little before noon today J. J. Graf of the Elks' club house took out a permit for $100,000 empowering him to erect an apartment house court at 116-120 West Elk avenue. He prepared his plans more than a year ago but was blocked at first because such buildings were not permitted in that section.

When this was obviated, other hindrances arose and it turned into a case of hope long deferred.

At last all difficulties have been smoothed out and work has began on one of the most beautiful of the many courts our city boasts of.

This permit and others taken out at about the same time bring the month's total to $720,339, and that for the year thus far to $8,815,186.

Walton Removed as Governor of Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla, Nov. 19.—Governor J. C. Walton was removed from office by the state senate court of impeachment at 3:52 p. m., today. The verdict was unanimous.

INSTITUTE TODAY HAS WELL-KNOWN SPEAKERS

Though a holiday for the school children of Glendale, today was not a holiday for their teachers. Nevertheless they had pleasure and profit in the two sessions of the second one-day institute of the Glendale district, over which Superintendent Richardson D. White presided this morning, and Principal George U. Moyse this afternoon, attended by all the teachers of the district.

At the afternoon session over which Principal Moyse presided, music was furnished by the music department of the high school under Mrs. Dora Gibson, and the speaker was H. B. Wilson, superintendent of schools in Berkeley. His address was an answer to criticisms of the public school systems of California. It was absolutely logical and a refutation of the criticisms bandied from mouth to mouth by unthinking people, covering the cost of schools, curriculum and extension of the period of compulsory education.

Dan Henry of 107 Eulalia street Saturday night had his Arrow bicycle stolen from the vicinity of the Gateway theatre.

AUTO COLLISIONS INJURE SEVERAL TWO SERIOUSLY

Mrs. Wm. Gibson's Collar Bone Broken; Little Girl Loses Teeth

Several automobile collisions, occurring over the week-end, were reported to the police department.

Mrs. William Gibson of Los Angeles received a broken collar bone and other members of her family were badly shaken up at 4:30 Saturday afternoon in an accident which happened at the intersection of Maple street and Brand boulevard. Mrs. Emma Brier of 611 East Broadway was the driver of the other car.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson and their two sons, William who was driving, and Charles, also their daughter, Miss Nellie, were going north on Brand boulevard and tried to pass in front of the other machine.

Following the accident, Dr. P. S. Traxler of 140 North Brand boulevard was summoned and first aid was administered at 629 South Brand boulevard in the Maple avenue pharmacy. The Gibson family then returned.

Another accident occurred yesterday morning about 8:25 in Southern Glendale. Joseph E. Harvey of Los Angeles was going east on Los Feliz road and F. E. Reynolds of Los Angeles was going south on San Fernando road, when their machines came together with a crash.

Ann Louise, seven-year-old daughter of J. E. Harvey, was thrown out of her father's machine and had several teeth knocked out. She was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital by Paul Cena of 1309 South San Fernando road. It was found that her injuries were not serious. On a charge of reckless driving Mr. Reynolds was brought to the police station by Motorcycle Officer M. H. Collins and Patrolman Glen Hemminger. He was afterwards released.

Automobiles belonging to Hugh R. Weir of 2929 Casitas avenue and Phil Pelkey of Burbank were badly damaged in a collision which occurred about 8 o'clock last night. Mr. Weir was going south on Verdugo road and swerved west on Wilson avenue in an attempt to avoid the collision. Mr. Pelky was going west on Wilson avenue.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEETING MOST INTERESTING

Wonderful Address by Emma Lindsey Squier, Who Charms All

The address given Saturday evening at the Union high school by Emma Lindsey Squier, famous writer of animal stories, in the interests of the Glendale Humane society, was not as well attended as it should have been.

The speaker of the evening was preceded by Mrs. Edgar Saltus, the founder of the Southern California Bide-A-Wee, who outlined the work of the Blue Cross society, organized in England during the war to alleviate the sufferings of dogs and horses used. She told of the work of the Bide-A-Wee home in New York in caring for homeless cats and dogs, also of the Bide-A-Wee in Altadena, and of its success in finding homes for friendless animals.

Emma Lindsey Squier described a visit to our city pound and the deplorable conditions which prevail there. She followed this with the story of the reformation of a human derelict brought about by having imposed upon him the responsibility for the care and well being of a dog as friendless as himself. The children showed their interest by gathering around Mrs. Squier after the talk, begging for more stries of their four-footed friend, the dog. So she promises to return to Glendale after the holidays and those interested may have another opportunity to hear this charming little lady.

Glendale's Humane society is expecting to receive its charter very soon. It now has a membership of nearly 200 and will affiliate with the state organization as soon as the charter is received.

FRED DEAL IS NOW LIEUT. GOV. BUT NOT OF STATE

Was Chosen to This Office at Kiwanis Convention Held Last Week

President A. L. Ferguson, Fred Deal and O. W. Andresen, local official delegates to the California-Nevada district Kiwanis convention held last week in Fresno, have returned with their wives and with the unofficial delegates who accompanied them, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Clark and Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Echols. Fred Deal comes back as one of the lieutenant-governors of the district, and his club is properly proud.

In commenting on the convention, Mr. Ferguson said it was a wonderful gathering which brought out the very best in Kiwanis. One of the international presidents who was present, Edward Arras of Cleveland, Ohio, who has attended more than 20 state conventions, declared it was the best in which he has had the privilege of participating. The audience numbered about 1000 of which 121 were official delegates and 300 members from all parts of the state who had gone voluntarily, paying their own expenses, to get the inspiration of the sessions.

Presiding over the convention was W. R. Brown, the governor elected last year while a member of the San Francisco club. He has since transferred his residence and business to this city and for several months has been working with the local club. He of course had general charge of the convention and was entitled to the congratulations showered upon him for its success. It was also agreed that much credit was due the Fresno club for the wonderful manner in which it and Fresno entertained the convention and the smoothness and efficiency with which it was done as though they were in the habit of doing it every day.

Another distinguished attendant who impressed Mr. Ferguson was Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary from Chicago.

Just Off the Wire From Here and There

LUXOR, Egypt, Nov. 19.—Work on the tomb of Tutenkhamun was restarted today. The final preparations having been completed, Howard Carter, head of the expedition, removed the outer woodwork and opened the iron gates, permitting entering into the passage leading to the ante-chamber, which last season was cleared of its royal treasures.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Deposits in state banks in California which have lain dormant and unclaimed for 20 years belong to the state if the officers of the bank do not know whether the depositors are alive. The supreme court so held today in a case brought by the Security Savings Bank against the state of California. The decision sustained judgment of the state courts sustaining the law.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge is strongly inclined toward the Mellon tax reduction program and is expected by some of his advisers to endorse that flatly in his message to congress.

Such an endorsement, in the opinion of administration officials, would be sufficient to sweep aside such opposition as there has been among some Republican leaders to a tax revision at the coming session.

Cropping Contracts With Aliens Invalid

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—"Cropping contracts" with aliens ineligible to own or lease land under the alien land laws of California and Washington were held by the supreme court today to be invalid.

The decision was in a case brought by the attorney general of California and the district attorney of Santa Clara county against J. J. O'Brien and J. Inouye.

JOINT BANQUET AT TUESDAY CLUB HOUSE PLANNED

Glendale will be hostess tomorrow night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house at a banquet to commerce at 6:30 to about 150 Southern California representatives of the Associated Concrete Industries and also to the Glendale Builders' exchange.

In honor of the occasion, chamber of commerce directors are making plans to attend the banquet in a body.

R. E. Johnston of 440 South San Fernando road is president of the "Associated." He is inviting all persons who are not members and are interested in the program to telephone him at Glendale 2440 and make arrangements to attend the function. He added that they will very welcome.

Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor Spencer Robinson and Jesse E. Smith, president of the chamber of commerce. The response will be made by Burton Bunch, secretary of the Associated Concrete Industries.

Entertainment numbers will include solos by D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard and piano selections by Mrs. Willard Jackson of Los Angeles.

"Problems of Sewer Construction" will be discussed by W. A. Van Norman who is now engaged in the construction of the Los Angeles outfall sewer.

William Lee Woollett of Los Angeles, architect of Grauman's million dollar theatre, will speak upon the subject, "Making Concrete Beautiful."

Moving pictures of the Pittsburgh road tests will be shown by Lloyd Aldrich, consulting engineer who had charge of them. He will explain the utility of "Concrete Pavements."

A. O. Malone, president of the California Stucco Products corporation, will speak upon the interrogation, "Stucco, Portland or Magnesite?"

Frank M. Brooks, vice-president of the Art Concrete Works of Pasadena, will talk about "Architectural Concrete Stone."

James C. Hanley, sales manager of the Jencks Brick company of Los Angeles, has as his subject "Concrete Face Brick."

BUILDING PERMITS

Permits for a $12,500 garage and show room at 1234 South Brand boulevard has been taken out by J. F. Stanford of 1147 East Wilson avenue and construction will commence immediately.

November's total so far this morning was $570,489, while the total for the year to date is $8,665,336.

Permits issued recently include the following:

J. F. Stanford, garage and show rooms, 1234 South Brand	$12500
E. R. Lambertson, chimney, 1504 East Harvard	90
John A. Giles, 3 rooms, 1446 Kenneth	1200
Alva W. Brown, garage, 344 West Wilson	300
Harvey & Eva Harshman, 4 rooms, 1323 East Maple	2500

RECENT RULINGS ON INCOME TAX QUEER PROBLEMS

Associations or corporations without capital stock, organized by groups of farmers for the purpose of selling co-operatively leaf tobacco grown by them, the sales being conducted by the associations as principals, cannot claim exemption from liability as dealers in leaf tobacco upon the theory that they are farmers or growers and as such entitled to the same exemption accorded to that class of taxpayer.

This ruling which will be of interest to many farmers in Southern California who are growing approximately 4,000,000 pounds of Turkish tobacco annually, was received from Washington yesterday.

A taxpayer, who is not a member of a stock exchange, has no place of business and does not make purchases or sales of securities for others but devotes the greater part of his time to keeping in touch with the market and in giving buy or sell orders to his broker, is held by the Internal Revenue Bureau to be engaged in the buying and selling of securities for the purpose of claiming the benefit of a net loss sustained in the operation of a trade or business, according to a ruling received yesterday by Collector Rex Goodcell.

The decision further holds that he is not a dealer within the meaning of the Revenue Act of 1921, and is entitled to the benefits of the Income Tax Law with respect to gains derived from the sale of stock which was acquired and held for profit or investment for more than two years.

Deaths and Funerals

ALFRED H. DAVIS

Attorney Alfred H. Davis passed away this morning, Monday, November 19, 1923, at a local hospital. He was born in Kentucky on December 1, 1855, and is survived by a brother, Charles Davis of Lincoln, Nebr., a sister, Mrs. Nancy Johnson, also of Lincoln, and a daughter, Mrs. Paul Lupo of 3461 Atwater avenue, Los Angeles. Mr. Davis had been ill for about a month. His law office was located at 610 East Broadway and he had been a resident of Glendale for a number of years.

Mr. Davis had been a member of the Knights of Pythias organization for 28 years and at the time of his death was affiliated with Glendale lodge No. 331. He was also a member of the Elks lodge of Lincoln Nebr., and of the Sons of Veterans. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Kiefer & Eyerick undertaking directors are in charge.

Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Jewell of 1319 East Harvard street, had as their house guest for the week-end, Mr. C. A. Reed of Washington, D. C., who has been an intimate friend of the family since their school days. Mr. Reed is employed by the government in the bureau of nut culture and last year the department sent him to China to investigate the English walnuts, and to see if it was liable to be a competing country in this industry against California. For several days he has been in the walnut growing sections giving lectures, illustrated by slides on this investigation. Mr. and Mrs. Jewell and son Percy motored to Puente Saturday afternoon to hear him speak and he returned with them. He left Sunday evening for Berkeley, where he is to address the almond growers' association.

Miss Birdie Lee Shropshire of 1841 South Brand, who has been spending a few months home, started at 9 this morning on her return to Cincinnati, Ohio, to resume her work with the branch of the Pacific Mutual Insurance company located there.

Lieut. J. G. Farrell of North Island, San Diego, is visiting his sister and brother at 435 Patterson avenue. Lieut. Farrell is expecting to leave for Manila the first of December with the air squadron.

Mrs. Grace Anderson and family of 516 Salem street, on Sunday were tempted by the fine weather and motored to Ventura and back.

Mrs. A. J. Maxwell of 400 West Stocker street, who recently underwent an operation at the Glendale sanitarium, is at home and is able to be up and around again.

Mrs. Van Wye of Florence, Colo., arrived Thursday and will be the guest of her niece, Mrs. Malvern Barker, 1246 South Glendale, the balance of the winter. Robert Barker, the 6-year-old son of Mrs. Barker is convalescent from an attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. Al Dix and children, Dorothy and Robert, arrived yesterday from Denver to join her husband who preceded them west. The family is living at 127 South Kenwood street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Long of 518 North Central avenue have as their house guests for the winter Mrs. Rodney Wyett and son of Champaign, Illinois.

MUSICAL TREAT AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TUESDAY

Music lovers of Glendale are looking forward to a great musical treat at the Glendale Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. The Immanuel male quartet and saxophone club of Los Angeles will give a concert consisting of quartets, trios, duets and solos with voice and saxophones. This will be the second time this quartet has appeared in Glendale. Their many friends who heard them before in Glendale or who have heard them over the radio will be glad of this opportunity to hear them again. When William Jennings Bryan made his recent lecture tour of the western states this quartet accompanied him and were given an enthusiastic ovation wherever they appeared.

This organization is under the management of M. L. Stewart and is made up of Joseph Kleinasser, first tenor; David Kleinasser, second tenor; Arthur L. Reimer, baritone, and Peter D. Eitzen, basso.

They are all artists and have appeared repeatedly at many points in Southern California. They will appear at the chamber of commerce dinner at the Glendale country club at noon tomorrow. During the afternoon they will give concerts at Glendale Avenue intermediate school, East Broadway school and Wilson Avenue intermediate school. A large audience is expected to greet the quartet tomorrow evening.

MRS. CUTLER IS HOSTESS TO FOOTHILL CLUB

Mrs. Wm. C. Cutler was hostess to the Foothill club Friday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated in chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers. The club finished its Christmas sewing, which consists of children's pajamas and other wear and stuffed toy cats, which are to be turned over to the Glendale Welfare council. A prize was given for the most original stuffed cat, Mrs. E. E. B. Wyman being winner. Mrs. John O. Cotton gave several vocal selection. A two-course luncheon was served in the dining room, bringing to a close a very enjoyable afternoon. Following is the club personnel: Mrs. Julius Kranz, president; Mrs. Nyda Dana, vice president; Mrs. Wm. C. Cuter, secretary; Mrs. J. P. Tabor, Mrs. W. B. Nelson, Mrs. Alfred F. Priset; Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. Chas. H. Beggs, Mrs. E. W. Cunningham, Dr. Margaret M. Yorke, Mrs. E. B. Wyman, Mrs. Mary J. Oliver, Miss Ellis L. Williams, Miss Maude Salisbury, Mrs. John W. Cotton, Mrs. F. G. LA CRESCENTA WOMAN'S CLUB MASQUE BALL

One of the gala events of the past week was the masquerade dancing party, given by the La Crescenta Woman's club last Saturday evening at the school auditorium. This is the second of a series of dancing parties planned by the club this season. The auditorium was most attractive, suggestions of autumn being carried out in the decorations. The difficult task of judging the many wonderful costumes and awarding the prizes was given to C. E. Culberson, M. S. Collins and Mrs. E. N. Nettleton. The first prize, for the most beautiful costume, was awarded to Mrs. M. S. Collins and J. S. Brown, both in colonial dress. Mrs. J. Kelley, in one of the many varieties of Sis Hopkins, attire, and Earl Young as a tramp, were awarded the first prizes for the most fun-provoking costumes. Mrs. M. B. Damon was club hostess of the evening. She was assisted by Mesdames C. J. Klatt, M. S. Collins, T. S. Brown, J. S. Martin, J. S. Conlin and H. Hilsen. On December 15 the woman's club will give its next dance with Mrs. C. E. Culberson as hostess.

"FEAR THAT CASTS OUT FEAR" IS REV. EDMONDS' TOPIC

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church preached in the Glendale theatre yesterday morning and used as his sermon subject "Fear that casts out fear." The message was taken from Prov. 1:33: "He that heareneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from the fear of evil." Rev. Edmonds said in part:

"Through all the ages man has been oppressed and intimidated by selfishness and tyranny and tortured by fear. Occasionally a brave soul would arise and defy the tyrant's power and win for the nation the priceless boon of liberty. But even with the advent of liberty the spirit of fear has not ceased to dominate the great majority of human beings. Go back to Pilate. He believed in the innocence of Jesus. He strove hard to set Him free, but he feared the people, feared the authorities at Rome, feared he would lose his official position. The fear of man brought him a snare and led him to redden his hands with the blood of the Son of God.

"Days of crucifixion, burning at the stake, thumb screws and tortures of the inquisition are things of the past. Today it is intimidation, fear of being singular, losing influence, popularity, friends, trade, money or being out of fashion. It is an age of compromise and fear. Many a minister is betraying the gospel because he fears to be unpopular.

"Jesus Christ told His disciples that the remedy for fear of man was fear of God. Moses escaped from Egypt not fearing the wrath of the king. Pharoh's threatening had no weight with this God-fearing man. Soloman has much to say of the fear of the Lord. It is 'the fountain of life,' 'beginning of wisdom,' and the foundation of all piety and character. We must fear God before we can love Him. We must recognize His absolute sovereignty and accept His will as the unconditional law of life. The Gospel does not ignore the law, but rises above it as the building does above the solid foundation.

"The fear of God is the reverence of a loving, trusting child. Jesus always approached His Father in the spirit of hallowed adoration and majesty. 'The cup which the Father hath given me shall I not drink it?' Fearing God is doing God's will without asking any questions.

"The fear of evil looms large in men's lives. Not the sinner's fear. Is there anything more awful? The sinner lives as if God had said, 'Call upon me and I will not answer you. Seek me early but ye shall not find me.' God really says, 'I will laugh when your fear cometh.' Every physician, nurse and minister knows the dying siner's vision of eternal despair. It is a fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation which shall devour the adversaries."

K. C. COUNCIL ENTERTAINS MEMBERS OF THE PARISH

On Saturday night the members of Glendale council No. 1920, Knights of Columbus, entertained the members of the Holy Family parish with a card and dancing party held at the club house at 330 East Lomita avenue. The affair was in the form of a get-together meeting especially for the newcomers. It was a big success and a large numbers of strangers were present. Dr. Noehle, chairman of the committee on arrangements, is being complimented on the big success of the evening.

Cards were played until 10 o'clock, when refreshments were served. Prizes were won by Miss E. Ruprecht, first; Mrs. Heideman, second; Miss D. Ruprecht, consolation; J. Dague, first; J. Chappius, second; W. W. Fred, consolation. Dancing was then enjoyed until midnight. Music was furnished by Humphrey's four-piece orchestra.

GENESIS STORY IS CONTINUED BY KEITH L. BROOKS

Keith L. Brooks, speaking before the Presbyterian brotherhood Bible class, Suday morning, referred to published statements of Rev. Percy S. Grant, of New York, in which Dr. Grant had classified the Genesis story of man as fable and folklore, and pointed out that Dr. Grant had evidently not made a very careful examination of the Genesis statements. Discussing the second chapter of Genesis, he said in part:

"We read here of the tree of life which occupied the most conspicuous place in Paradise and standing evidently for something which God desired Adam to choose for his good. The tree of the knowledge of good and evil occupied a less exalted position. Why was free permission given to eat of the one and prohibition in case of the other? From what is said in Scripture of the tree of life, we judge that it was the symbol of the eternal life of God, including immortality. Perhaps Adam and Eve, with their wonderful powers of spirit and mind, their intuitive knowledge as they were created in the image of God, understood the symbol. It was a matter of their choosing eternal life or choosing a course that would fascinate the mind but the results of which would be uncertain. Their sin was not in the eating but in putting self-gratification before trustful obedience to God. Since man had been created with the capacity of choice and moral perception of high order, his environment must include provision for the use of these powers. Hence the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

"Some are always asking, 'What was the necessity for this tree?' From God's viewpoint, He would surround Himself with a people who had chosen of free will to serve Him. While He made a way to fall, this did not necessitate a fall, and even in the case of a fall it should not be a hopeless fall, for a remedy was provided. From man's viewpoint, in order to choose good he must have in him the power to choose evil. Character amounts to nothing without testing. Nothing makes moral stamina but discipline.

"The penalty pronounced in the 17th verse is literally 'in the day that thou eatest thereof, dying thou shalt die.' It does not mean temporal death on the literal day of the offense. That day Adam became dead in sin.

"Not only was the tree of the knowledge of good and evil in the garden, but there was one who could direct attention to it and that was Satan, referred to in the third chapter as "the serpent," who is said to be wiser than any creature of the land. The other references in Scripture to this temptation of Adam make it clear that we have here none other than a personal tempter, the devil himself, referred to in Revelation 20:2 as 'that old serpent, the devil.'"

BRIDGE LUNCHEON PARTY AT SUNSET CANYON CLUB

Mrs. W. G. Schmeltzel and Mrs. J. B. Davidson were hostesses at a bridge luncheon given at the Sunset Canyon country club on Nov. 16. The tables were beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and ferns. The favors were made to represent real wheat, giving the dining room a genuine Thanksgiving atmosphere. The place cards were beautiful strutting turkeys. After luncheon all gathered in the drawing room where bridge and Five Hundred were enjoyed. The first prize for bridge was awarded to Mrs. Sidney King, the second to Mrs. Kahn, the third to Mrs. Clarence Skeen. Mrs. Bossuet was awarded the Fave Hundred prize.

BUILDING UP CASE AGAINST EX-GOV. WALTON

[By Associated Press]

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 19.—Prosecutors in the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton today turned their guns on the alleged abuse of pardon and parole authority.

They declared there would be no proof that the governor had received bribes, but that they would show he exceeded his legal authority in that he granted pardons and paroles before conviction, awarded clemency despite protests of many citizens and that his actions were designed to permit his friends to obtain large attorney's fees.

The prosecutors said they would attempt to prove that a pardon was obtained for an imprisoned man by an agent who demanded $5000 before delivery. They said they would present evidence of another similar case in which the fee was $2500.

Steam your bacon instead of boiling it and you will be surprised to find how little it wastes. If you have no steamer put it into a colander and stand the colander on top of a saucepan with boiling water in it.

GLENDALE SCIOTS WIN GLORY AND HONOR FOR SELVES AT SAN DIEGO

of the Glendale pyramid were seated in one of the boxes of Spreckles theater, where the convention was held. All the seats on the main floor were occupied by delegates, the balconies being reserved for visitors. At the psychological moment Norman Davidson, one of the body guard of Toparch Bennett, led in the yell: "1923, 1924, 1925 GLENDALE,' and a large Glendale banner fell over the front of the box inviting the convention to meet in this city in 1925. Telegrams ratifying the invitation were read from the Glendale city council, chamber of commerce, Kiwanis and Exchange clubs and the house let out a roar of applause and voted 100 percent for Glendale against its rival, Reno, Nevada.

Santa Barbara had hoped to secure the coveted honor, but after the vote sent delegates to congratulate the Glendale officials and promised support provided Glendale would work for Santa Barbara for 1926. The Glendale pyramid is also represented on two important state committees.

"Saturday morning charters were presented to seven new pyramids by the newly elected paraoh, Whited, who is one of the most popular business men in the state of California and who is well known in all the Masonic orders, including the De Molay, to which he has given considerable time.

"The parade was held Saturday at noon with 12 bands playing and several thousand men in line. As the Glendale toparch, I was one of the body guard of Pharaoh Whited. We marched to the stadium where the drill contest and the band contest took place. San Francisco's pyramid, No. 1, was awarded first prize in the drill contest over 18 competing pyramids. As already stated, Glendale's 44-piece band won first in Class A. As soon as the award was announced Glendale delegates picked up Bill Osterman and carried him all around the stadium, receiving a wonderful ovation. After returning to the Grant hotel the band played several selections, which were enthusiastically applauded and was given a reception in the Glendale headquarters. At 8 p. m. the band marched to the big dining room of the hotel, which had been engaged by me for the occasion, and were treated to a big dinner, covers being laid for 110. At the conclusion of the dinner, band members and all the Glendale delegation, including the ladies, formed a 'serpentine' and led by Sciot Maxwell, playing his fife, and a drummer, paraded through every hotel, theater and store in the downtown district of San Diego, having a hilarious time and being welcomed wherever we went. It was a great convention and Glendale's pyramid certainly 'arrived.'"

Toparch Bennett was ably supported in his campaign to put the Glendale pyramid over at the convention by his body guard, which included Proclamator W. E. Moody, Mazai Murdy and Sciot Davidson.

IZEN TO BE AGAIN DEMONSTRATED BY MONARCH CO.

The demonstration of Izen held last week at the Monarch Auto Supply company store proved so successful that the Alaco Pacific company, manufacturer, has decided to extend the demonstration during the coming week, giving every one a chance to witness the "wonder fluid" in action against rust, tarnish, and dull metals. Izen is not a polish, but an extremely strong preservative of all metals, and will keep polished parts in the same condition for an unlimited time, making it a necessity to the home and motorist. Silverware, nickle, gold, aluminum and other metals are quickly restored by the application of the fluid.

A barrister was cross-examining a very portly, very self-satisfied and very well-dressed witness.

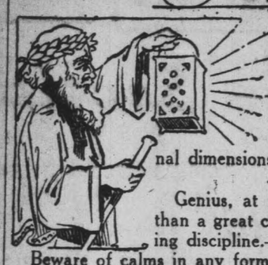
"You are a man of independent means?" he asked.

"I ham!" replied the witness emphatically.

The lawyer beamed upon him.

"And a very well-dresesd ham, too," he remarked.

Truths in Epigram



Every now and then a man's mind is stretched by a new idea or sensation, and never shrinks back to its original dimensions.—O. W. Holmes.

Genius, at first, is little more than a great capacity for receiving discipline.—George Eliot.

Beware of calms in any form. This life means action.—Joaquin Miller.

REALLY OPPOSED TO SPEEDING

Justice Baird of Los Angeles county fined each of four speeders $500 with the alternative of 150 days in jail. Twelve others the same day got penalties of $250. As most of the defendants elected to pay, the county did quite a profitable business for a few moments. One of the members of the $250 class was a woman, but to the court all speeders looked alike.

It is not stated that any of these speeders had inflicted damage to person or property. They had done nothing but wantonly violate a law devised for safety. They might have caused accident and death. That they had not done so was due to good fortune. Had they been permitted to go unpunished, sooner or later, they would have been involved in tragedy. Perhaps the lesson they received will reform them and be an example to others. If not, conditions demand further measuhes of severity. The public, save for the quota of speed maniacs, demands that automobile drivers shall comply with the law.

Almost invariably the person moving along the highway at perilous gait, has not the slightest reason for hurry. He forges ahead regardless of the rights or the welfare of others for no better reason than to show off. He is a bully and wants the public to understand that it must get out of his way. He is brutal and selfish, and engaged in advertising the fact. Often he is temperamentally unfit to be at the wheel. Something had to be done about it! The $500 fine appears to be a proper start.

THE PROSPECTIVE FORD CAR

This car is not of tin. On the contrary it is described as the last word in Pullman luxury. It is to glitter and gleam, a veritable triumph of the craftsman. Within it will be all the comforts of home and office. The prospective splendor is for Henry Ford.

The fact is worth bearing in mind that information concerning this rolling magnificence comes from the Chicago Tribune, and that in the roster of the Tribune's friendship there is no mention of Ford. Perhaps it is trying to queer his political game, if he is in such a game.

Such strength as Ford may possess must be in the multitude that whizzes loudly over the land in vehicles by him made and provided. They may regard him as a benefactor, because it is due to him that they ramble right along. But were he to come among them ensconced in the splendor of imported upholstery, himself peeping from behind tapestry curtains, his roving habitat dazzling their eyes, they would fall away. They would say they had bought enough tin to pay for his silver-lined bath room, and that if this is the result of their contributions to his prosperity, the contributions have been too large.

If Ford is a wise politician, and wants anything of the very numerous and potential crowd made up of his customers, it behooves him to travel in the ordinary Pullman, with an occasional change into the common smoker. On the highway, it would be wisdom for him to jaunt in one of the conveyances of his own make, with the varnish peeling, and the interior vibrating in noisy response to every bump.

But perhaps the shrewd Mr. Ford desires to kill off the theory that he wants to be elected to anything. If so, the gilded Pullman chariot will do the business for him.

ENTANGLING ALLIANCES

President Washington was not the only early statesman to warn against entangling alliances with Europe. They were wise men of their times. They had in mind a situation that prevailed in the eighteenth century. Wise as they were, they could not foresee the relative standings of the nations in 1923. It did not occur to them that their own nation was then to be the greatest and strongest of all. That it was destined to leadership of the world was a possibility they had not visioned. That in the family of nations it was to be a dominant force, had not occurred to them.

Another thing also developed as the human family progressed, concerning which they could not have been aware in advance. They knew nothing of the intimacy that was to arise between the two continents, the ease of communication, the rapidity of transit. They were accustomed to being weeks from Europe. It was quite easy then to keep aloof from the continent across the sea. Now the whole industrial structure is so wrought into a compact whole, that isolation not only has become impossible, but the attempt to sustain such a policy is grotesque.

Americans are for their own country first; all good Americans. This does not imply that towards other peoples they must present a hostile or indifferent front. There are common interests now to be conserved, and one of these interests is peace. It is beyond all reason to presume that half of civilization may be torn by war, and the other half remain secure in tranquil prosperity.

When a man "throws his hat into the ring" as a presidential candidate, affirming that his policy is that of letting Europe alone, or taking no part in the affairs affecting the other continent, but to ignore these affairs, he is striking a ridiculous pose. His unfitness is shown by the fact that he does not know he is ridiculous.

A PHILIPPINE TERRITORY

The American chamber of commerce at Manila has adopted a resolution for an enabling act establishing the Philippines as an organized Territory of the United States. This would necessitate the revoking of the Jones act, now the basis of Philippine government.

What, if anything, will come of this resolution it is difficult to surmise. Clearly the suggested course would not be in consonance with the pledge of ultimate independence given at the time the United States assumed control; given, too, in good faith.

It is possible that conditions have so changed as to make impossible rigid adherence to the original plan. If in some vital aspect the Filipinos have failed to come up to the desired standard of ethics, this is in part their fault and in part their misfortune. Perhaps they have been coddled too much. Whatever the cause, the political leaders, or those judged by the noise they make, to be political leaders, have developed a habit of mind somewhat crudely indicated by the term "big head."

The islanders have been the recipients of many benefits, educational and material. They have been trained along the line of being able to look out for themselves. Evidently responsibility has been thrust uon them too fast, since it seems to have exceeded their intellectual development. But along with the benefits have been certain handicaps, such as the presence, the conduct and the misleading counsels of Governor-General Harrison. This official did much to set up a spirit of discontent. He taught the natives that they were being kept down. Every time he had the opportunity of humiliating an American and of recognizing the native as the superior of the white, he did so. Such was the seed. The harvest begins to appear.

Two residents of southern California got as far as Vancouver and there resumed the activities that had made them unpopular. They were caught robbing oil stations. In addition to five years in the penitentiary, they were both sentenced to two whippings, each of ten lashes. There is neither probation nor parole up there. The pair ought to have stayed at home.

THE WHIP OF LEADERSHIP

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"The whip of leadership"—I heard that phrase used a few days ago by a very brilliant speaker, and it sunk in and set me thinking.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

One of the most popular of delusions is that fostered in secret by most of us, the delusion that we were cut out to lead and that in some way fate has defrauded us of the opportunity.

The quickest way to get over the delusion is to get in a position of leadership and watch what happens. Unless one has in his soul the elements of the conqueror he will feel much as the Hunchback of Notre Dame might have felt had he at any time in his unhappy life found himself suddenly in the spotlight.

More than once I've seen it tried as it is likely to be tried at intervals in any country given over, theoretically at least, to the practice of democracy, and the trial was a pitiful thing to see, a brief, bewildered period of torture and chagrin followed by the blackness of engulfing obscurity.

Rising is difficult enough even in America, but it's child's play compared to the task of staying up once you are on top. You can fool the people when you are asking to lead them, but you can't fool them once they see you in action. Step once to the front, rise ever so briefly about your fellows and you will find all too quickly the significance of the phrase that opened this article.

Leadership means going quicker and faster and better than those who are behind; it means a speeding up of every natural faculty, sharpening every mental power, using to the utmost the mental, moral and physical powers.

You have heard of the flagellantes, those strange fanatics who beat themselves through the world during the middle ages to expiate their sins?

Well, the man who aspires to leadership must be a flagellante in spirit if not in fact, for when nature flags and all the world is looking he must either whip himself into step or go down forever; for once he is down the mob will pass over and across and above him and another will take his place.

There is for the mediocre no quicker road to political or social or commercial suicide than the brief gift of leadership.

"I know that I can do it if I have the chance" ought to be a prayer and not a boast—for the gods in sardonic mood may try you out, and if then you lack the whip of leadership or the soul of the flagellante you are doomed.

Everything looks easy when you see an expert do it; but only the conductor who leads the orchestra, or the general who commands the army, or the horse that wins the race knows the intimate relation between success and pain, self-inflicted and long standing.

For your own sake don't ask the chance unless within you is the whip of leadership and the will to use it ruthlessly.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I've made up with Miss Bob. She is the stenographer in the front office. She refused to recognize me for a time after I told her that I didn't mind girls painting their cheeks, but that I wanted the painting properly done, but she's come back.

"I've got to gossip with some one," is the way Miss Bob explained her return.

This morning she told me that she simply can not understand about Billy Daley in the office next door. Bill's boss sent him out five or six weeks ago on an important assignment, and Bill pulled a bloomer. Of course, he had not been in the habit of making foozles or he would not have been given the job in the first place. But it was a bad one.

"Bill just simply walked right through all the precedents and office rules and regulations," said Miss Bob, breathlessly.

He got away with it that time. That is, the boss didn't fire him. Didn't even give him a call, Miss Bob says. Just looked at him with a queer grin. Weeks went on and Bill made good on every order. Then he was dumped into a hot spot overnight—

"His old boss was down at Hot Springs, and just simply wired that Bill was to take charge," said Miss Bob, angrily. "As if he wanted to see something happen—"

And Bill had some more bad luck. Miss Bob says that the least he expected was to get fired, but the boss just grunted. All the other men in the office took occasion to say nasty things to poor Bill. Some of them pitied him for his bad luck in the presence of the boss.

"I wonder why?" said Miss Bob. "I can't understand how Bill can get away with two flops like that."

I can tell her. It is because the boss says that Bill at least tries to do something. The rest of his men, he says, wouldn't even try. Most of them, he says, might just as well be stuffed.

THE LISTENING POST

By Joseph W. Faley

JAMES W. FOLEY

If I knew you as you know yourself, how kindly I would judge you.

And if you knew me as I know myself, how amiable would be your judgment.

It is understanding that is the brightest jewel in the crown of wisdom.

* * *

The trouble is that except superficially, I know nothing about you.

Because you do not carry your heart on your sleeve for me to read.

And you know little or nothing of me.

Because the real me is seldom if ever revealed to you.

So our knowledge of each other is superficial.

* * *

And with superficial knowledge we make hasty and unfair judgments.

For it is the disposition of all of us to render judgments.

Notwithstanding the "judge not that ye be not judged."

Many things in life come up to us for judgment.

* * *

The actions of men.

The decisions of statesmen.

The mandates of rulers.

The misdeeds and weaknesses and crimes of the world.

All of them inevitably come before us for judgment.

* * *

What is a fair judgment?

Who can say?

What is justice?

To judge the actions of the individual fairly we might have to go back for generations.

To study heredity and environment and a lot of things.

* * *

To judge you I need to know all about you.

To look at the world from your eyes.

To get back into the very sanctum sanctorum of your thinking.

And of course I cannot do that.

So any judgment I make is hasty and superficial.

* * *

We judge nations.

And the rulers and leaders of nations.

We judge them by standards of our own.

And yet their standards may be different altogether from ours.

And who is to say what standard is right and what standard is wrong?

* * *

Judgment is a difficult thing, if it is to be rendered with justice.

Who is to judge the child by the same standard men are to be judged.

And there is a lot of childishness in the world in grown up clothes.

* * *

In all things we need tolerance.

Understanding.

Clear vision.

And in judgments we seldom have any of those things.

The fanatic would burn and destroy.

Hatred would condemn with hardly a hearing.

* * *

It is a pretty good plan to use in judging my neighbor the same standard and rule I use to judge myself.

For I can always find excuses for myself.

And I am not prone to find excuses for my neighbor.

Songs of the Poets

Sea-Clan—By Ruth Clay Price in The Mineret.

High, on timeless, desolate rocks I lay,
And watched the sea-fowl drawing lines of grey
On the lonely, soundless sky of a fog-dim day.

The cold, pale waveway lay as smooth as steel;
Even before I saw, I seemed to feel
The powerful, underwave glide of a hunting seal.

Came the sudden lift of the seal's great head,
Tossing his prey, a fish already dead:
Sea-gulls wheeled above him as he fed.

The silence shook with his hoarse, recurrent cries
The gulls, in a cirrus of wings, screamed shrill replies:
Wind-fog pressed close, and blurred them from my eyes.

The sea and the gulls, in grey underglooms, passed by,
Then—alone in the mist between sea and sky—
From my own lips I heard a wild sea-cry!

MORALITY AND INTELLIGENCE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

GREAT intellectual powers and great artistic genius are not at all inconsistent with gross immorality. A half-dozen extraordinarily famous men could be named offhand who were moral perverts and another half-dozen who were victims of drugs, to say nothing of those who never paid their debts.

Overstatement in moral teaching is fatal. Morality is not essential to winning the prizes of earth: it is essential to happiness and peace. A man may be mentally powerful and artistically creative and yet be a wretched, pitiable failure in himself.

Goldwin Smith records that when he held the Chair of History at Cornell, one of his colleagues was "Ruloff, who in a remarkable way combined criminal propensities with literary tastes, being a great philologist and engaged in the invention of a universal language. Ruloff committed a series of robberies and murders, the latter beginning with his wife and daughter. On that occasion he escaped through the absence of a corpus delicti; Lake Cayuga, into which he had thrown the bodies, being undredgable."

He was finally hanged.

There is a hotter torment than that of incompetence; it is that of competence. The devil, from all accounts, is a very gifted and able person.

This thing we call morality is not something that abides in the intelligence. It is not ignorance that makes us immoral. Neither does morality reside in the instincts. We have no instinct that was not put in us by our Maker and which is not good if properly expressed.

Morality is entirely a matter of those powers in us which we call the inhibitions. That means our ability to check, regulate and direct ourselves. Inhibition is the bit which we put in the mouth of the wild horse of our desires. Inhibition is the engineer who sits in the locomotive of our knowledge, culture and skill.

It is well enough to give moral teaching by instructing children what is good and what is bad. But strictly speaking, that is not moral training; it is simply the basis for it.

There is only one kind of real moral training. It is the practice of compelling ourselves from doing what we want to do. When we become adepts in this art we are moral. If we cannot at all do this we are riding in a cart after runaway horses, or riding in a train drawn by a locomotive in which there is no engineer. The smash-up is rather inevitable.

We speak of people going to the devil. This should not refer to people with wrong opinions or reprehensible manners. The only people who are going, slowly or rapidly according to circumstances, but going inevitably to the devil, are the people who do as they please.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHY NEGROES COME NORTH

[Richmond Times-Dispatch]

Figures just given out by the department of labor show that in the year ended August 31 last approximately a half million negro laborers migrated from the south to northern states. This migratory movement was caused by high wages paid in the north, is the conclusion reached by the department.

The statement of the secretary of labor bears out the contention of well-informed men of the south that the movement has no important relation to existing political conditions in the states affected as claimed by republicans who have sought to make party capital by that argument, but rather finds its impulse in economic causes. Since the close of the world war, until recently, the south has been the chief sufferer in the effort to readjust itself to conditions imposed by the necessity of deflating the country's business from the high level of war-time expansion and resultant high prices. Likewise, it has suffered from a series of short yields in its staple money crops. The resultant effect of these "hard times" on the farm industry has been an increasing movement of white farm labor to industrial southern towns and cities, and a corresponding movement of negro labor to northern industrial centers. The south is now making rapid strides in working out from under the depression of the past few years, with the result that both of the above movements will in time correct themselves.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"And For What?" is the caption of an article in Collier's. It is from the pen of a former buck private named Patterson McNutt. It is well written, albeit marked by than a mere trace of bitterness.

HENRY JAMES

The question relates to the purpose for which the soldier was fighting, and what the result of his fighting. And the answer to be deduced from the paper by the ex-doughboy is "Nothing." The correctness of the answer hardly is to be disputed.

American boys went to war with the idea that they were to end war. They entered with spirit, they fought bravely. Then came the tragedy of armistice, recently celebrated, for some reason not quite clear. The army came back. The soldiers thought they had accomplished something. Their consciences were clear, their record fine.

Years have passed, and the gradually dawning suspicion that all the effort and sacrifice, the effusion of blood, the spilling of treasure, had been fruitless, became confirmed into belief. Europe is as eager for war as ever. The outlook over there is as dark as ever.

This country cannot be held blameless. It had the opportunity to lead the world along quiet paths to peace. It declined to extend this benign service. The nations wanted a leader. Leaderless they have wandered into devious ways.

At the time when America should have been free from partisanship, its so-called statesmen were not big enough. They weighted it down to their own level where mediocrity and selfishness seek party or personal advantage.

Abundant reason why the ex-soldier should have inquired "And for what?"

* * *

Some of the reports that come from Holland and Germany concerning the movements of the ex-kaiser and the ex-crown prince, bear every indication of being preposterous inventions.

What appears to be a cable message direct from Wilhelm is solemnly presented as authentic. It is addressed to one Vierick, the same Vierick who during the war was notorious for pro-German activities. Perhaps it is authentic, for strange things do happen. At the same time it is fair to assume that nobody will believe it. The probability that it is without foundation in fact, is bound to be recognized quite generally.

The plain truth seems to be that no one here knows the truth concerning conditions in Germany, beyond the bald fact that they are extremely bad, that the life of the nation is threatened, and that the chance of armed conflict, civil, or with France, is not remote.

Improvements in telephone service for this community are going ahead on the supposition that Los Angeles will have two million residents five years hence.

Germany is said to have announced that it will pay no more reparations, this recalling an ancient story.

A colored man complained that his wife, newly acquired, was all the time demanding money. "She axes me foh foah bits or a dollah ev'ry day," was his lament.

"But what do she want wid all de money?" his friend questioned.

"I dunno. Ain't never give her none yet," was the answer.

The announcement is made that delay is likely in the trial of former Justice Follette. This fails to surprise.

So far the whole affair has consisted almost entirely of delay, and the supply is not yet exhausted.

A brilliant woman predicts that in a future not very distant it will be common for girls to propose marriage. Such a custom might relieve the bashful male of great embarrassment. On the contrary, if his desire happened to be not to marry the applicant for his hand, his embarrassment would be increased many fold.

Perhaps it would be well for the girl to go slow. To face the prospect of being asked by the stern mother of her chosen mate "Are you able to support my son in the style to which he has been accustomed?" is not a pleasing ordeal to contemplate.

Then if the marital bark were to go on the rocks, the payment of alimony would have to be considered. Few women yet have had the experience of paying alimony, but if they start the domestic establishment on their own motion, and steer it amiss, this duty would seem to be up to them.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE BLESSEDNESS OF LITTLE

"The trouble with these boys," said the schoolmaster in a fine old preparatory school, "is that they have too much of everything. They have never had a wish that has not been granted; they do not understand what it means to want with a great wanting."

Wanting something with a great wanting is the most powerful gift ever bestowed by cross-eyed fortune upon the young prince in disguise. Wanting makes the brain grow keener, strengthens the resolution, hardens the spiritual muscles for the long race. Blessed are all those children who want something and know that they have to get out and get it for themselves.

The schools are so set that the children are fed what is prepared for them and never know what it means to miss an educational meal. If they show a languid appetite they are forthwith stimulated and the spoon-feeding begins. Tutors and coaches attend at their elbows; they serve the bored child well and he moves to the next spread. They never ask for anything; they never know what they want; scarcely feel that there is anything to want.

"Tom failed this year so his father is taking him out and putting him in the Brick school." "Dick doesn't care for Stone school. He's transferring to stucco." "Harry likes the set over in Straw hall so his mother is taking a suite for him there, although the Master doesn't approve."

Somewhere there ought to be the happy medium between that sort of idiocy and the grinding poverty of the log cabin. Somewhere there ought to be the sane recognition of the advantages of being poor enough to count one's resources and measure one's strength in the struggle to make them come out even.

It is not true that the poverty of Lincoln made him great, but mightn't it be true that it helped, rather than hindered, at least, to the extent that wealth is hindering many a body today?

The schools can not supply character. That is something the boy must grow for himself out of his inner self and through what the school offers him.

If all he does is to open his mouth for the silver spoon, sending him to school is sheer waste. He ought to sense the need of a spoon and feel a responsibility for finding the something to use it for.

It might help if boys walked to school instead of riding in a car. It might help, too, if they knew what their education was costing measured in terms of the ordinary man's daily work. It would certainly help if they were not only allowed, but were obliged, to earn a portion of the amount it cost to keep them at school for a year. It is not just to let a boy spend money without initiating him into the scheme of earning it.

Beyond all else it would help mightily if his parents could steel their hearts a bit and let him wish for something that he could not have until he earned it, created it out of the stuff that was in him. That's what he will have to meet some day; that is the real test of his worth. But riches are choking the fine boys all over the land. Blessed be little.

Modern Version of New Testament

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW

"Not seven times over, I tell you, but seventy-seven times over! For this reason the Kingdom of Heaven may be compared to a king, who resolved to settle accounts with his slaves. And when he set about doing so, a man was brought in who owed him ten million dollars. And as he could not pay, his master ordered him to be sold, with his wife and children and all he had, in payment of the debt. So the slave threw himself down before him and implored him, 'Give me time, and I will pay you all of it.' And his master's heart was touched, and he let the slave go and cancelled the debt. But when the slave went out he met a fellow-slave of his who owed him twenty dollars, and he caught him by the throat and began to choke him, saying, 'Pay me what you owe!' So his fellow-slave threw himself down before him, and begged him, 'Give me time, and I will pay you.' But he refused and went and had him put in prison until he should pay the debt. When his fellow-slaves saw what had happened, they were greatly distressed, and they went to their master and reported the whole matter to him. Then his master called him in and said to him, 'You wicked slave! I cancelled all that debt of yours when you entreated me. Ought you not to have taken pity on your fellow-slave, as I did on you?' So his master in his anger handed him over to the jailers, until he should pay all he owed him. That is what my heavenly Father will do to you, if you do not each forgive your brothers from your hearts!"

When Jesus had finished this discourse, he left Galilee and went to the part of Judea that is on the other side of the Jordan. Great crowds followed him about and he cured them there.

And some Pharisees came up to him to test him, and they said,

"Is it right for a man to divorce his wife for any cause?"

But he answered,

"Did you never read that the Creator at the beginning made them male and female, and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two of them shall become one'? So they are no longer two but one. Therefore, what God has joined together, man must not try to separate."

They said to him,

"Then why did Moses command us to draw up a written divorce-notice and give it to her?"

He said to them,

"It was on account of your perversity that Moses permitted you to divorce your wives, but it was not so at the beginning. I tell you that whoever divorces his wife on any ground but her unfaithfulness, and marries another woman, commits adultery."

The disciples said to him,

"If that is a man's relation to his wife, it is better not to marry!"

He said to them,

"It is not everyone who can accept that, but only those who have a special gift. For some are incapable of marriage from their birth, and some have been made so by men, and some have made themselves so for the sake of the Kingdom of Heaven. Let him accept it who can."

Then some children were brought up to him so that he might lay his hands on them and pray, but his disciples reproved the people for it. But Jesus said,

"Let the children alone, and do not try to keep them from coming to me, for the Kingdom of Heaven belongs to such as they are."

And he laid his hands on them and went on.

A man came up to him and said,

"Master, what good deed must I do to obtain eternal life?"

But he said to him,

"Why do you ask me about what is good? There is only one who is good. But if you want to enter that life, keep the commandments."

He said to him,

"Which ones?"

Jesus said,

"These: 'You shall not murder, You shall not commit adultery, You shall not steal, You shall not bear false witness, Honor your father and mother,' and 'You shall love your neighbor as you do yourself.'"

The young man said to him,

"I have obeyed all these commandments. What do I still lack?"

Jesus said to him,

"If you want to be perfect, go! Sell your property and give the money to the poor, and you will have riches in heaven. Then come back and be a follower of mine."

But when the young man heard that, he went away much cast down, for he had a great deal of property.

Jesus said to his disciples,

"I tell you, it will be hard for a rich man to get into the Kingdom of Heaven! And again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to get through a needle's eye than for a rich man to get into the Kingdom of Heaven!"

But when the disciples heard this, they were completely astounded and said,

"For men it is impossible, but anything is possible for God!"

Then Peter spoke and said to him,

"Here we have left all we had and followed you. What are we to have?"

Jesus said to them,

"In the new world, I tell you, when the Son of Man takes his seat on his glorious throne, you who have followed me will also sit upon twelve thrones, and judge the twelve tribes of Israel! And anyone who has given up houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or land for my sake will receive many times as much, and share eternal life. But many who are first now will be last then, and many who are now last will be first. For the Kingdom of Heaven is like an employer who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. He agreed with the laborers to pay them twenty cents a day, and sent them to his vineyard. He went out about nine o'clock and saw others standing in the bazar with nothing to do. And he said to them, 'You go to my vineyard, too, and I will pay you whatever is right.' So they went. He went out again about twelve and about three, and did the same. About five he went out and found others standing about and he said to them, 'Why have you been standing about here all day doing nothing?' They said to him, 'Because nobody has hired us.' He said to them, 'You go to my vineyard, too.' When evening came, the owner of the vineyard said to his foreman, 'Call the laborers and pay them their wages, beginning with the last and ending with the first.' When those who were hired about five o'clock came they received twenty cents each. And when those who were hired first came they expected to get more, but they too got twenty cents each.

FOURTH ANNUAL OBSERVANCE OF EDUCATION WEEK

The observance each year of American Education week tend to bring into harmony with each other the many forces in our country which are endeavoring to solve the problems confronting a democracy.

The democracy is made up of individuals to whom it guarantees more than does any other type of government and of whom it requires service in like quantity. Therefore the democracy progresses only so fast as the individuals develop the average level of intelligence. This is where the schools play their part. Patriotism in itself will not make good government; knowledge and training are necessary as well. Since the earliest days in the history of the United States this has been recognized. In setting up the first territorial government in "the Northwest" of that date, land was to be set aside for the use of schools "in as much as religion, morality and knowledge are necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education should be forever encouraged." Every president since George Washington has expressed this great need of diffusion of knowledge. He said, "knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public happiness. President Wilson said, "without popular education no government which rests upon popular action can long endure." And President Coolidge has expressed his ideas in his proclamation.

Not only the government asks for trained minds, but big business today is demanding more highly educated men to take charge in positions of responsibility.

Although the need for schools has been agreed upon through these years, the questions of what the training should consist, how much time should be spent at school, and how much money the system should require are constantly changing to meet changing needs. What sort of teachers are in charge? Are the laboratories and libraries adequate? Are the child's individual needs being met? Is he interested?

It is such everyday questions which are inviting a cooperation between the citizen of today and those individuals known as teachers whose problem it is to help in guiding and informing those who will be the citizens of tomorrow. One movement in the direction is the activity of Parent-Teacher associations which are now organized in every state of the nation as well as Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands.

Get acquainted with the environments in which your sons and daughters are spending the greater part of the day, for it is said that those who know the schools are for them.

America needs the help of its schools. The schools are calling upon citizens of America for help and backing. Let's get together.

The high school is holding open house on Wednesday. The grade schools are issuing special invitations and are expecting visitors throughout the week. In accordance with the suggestions of the American Legion for emphasizing certain topics the following program has been worked out in the local schools.

Program for Week

Sunday—For God and Country Day.

Monday—Institute Day.

Come to the meetings at the high school that day if you are interested in hearing the program of the regular November meeting of the Teachers' Institute.

Tuesday—Constitution and Patriotism Day.

Wednesday—School and Teacher Day.

The high school will hold open house during the day. The teachers will welcome anyone who is interested in visiting. At 2:30 the Parent-Teacher association of the high school will hold its regular meeting. The program will be given by teachers speaking on the value of various subjects in the curriculum. Each of the groups of studies will be represented: academics or major subjects, domestic arts, fine arts, mechanical arts, commercial department and physical education. Come and hear for yourselves the reason for including these subjects in the schol work.

The grade schools are devoting the day to physical deucation interclass games.

Thursday—Illiteracy Day.

At the high school there will be student assemblies in charge of the English department. The program will include introductory speeches by students, patriotic music supplied by the music department, and two films devoted to Alexander Hamilton and Benjamin Franklin.

Friday—Community Day.

Saturday — Physical Education Day.

THRIFT

A thrifty person means the boy, girl, man or woman who tries to save what he or she can. The man saves all the money he can, and the woman saves all of the things which she uses.

School children can be thrifty by not wasting paper and pencils. They can save if they use them only when needed.

Everyone should save their money so they can always buy the things which they need. If everybody tried to be thrifty, everybody would be happy.

One camera now records the chances made in wood while it is being seasoned.

PROCLAMATION

American Education Week was first observed by the American Legion in 1921. This year again the American Legion in conjunction with the United States Bureau of Education and the National Association, are calling upon the people of the nation to observe American Education Week.

The purposes of this great educational movement are to create a deeper and more universal interest in education, to remove illiteracy, to promote physical education and health service, to equalize educational opportunities throughout the United States, to Americanize the foreign born, and above all to pave the way for a higher type of Americanism.

The American Legion and the organizations cooperating with it in this movement have dedicated themselves to the task of educating the youth of the country. This is a serious effort towards a solution of democracy's problems. Those same men fought for the principles of democracy during the great war and their effort in educating the youth of the country springs from that deepest of patriotism that was expressed by the sacrifices rendered by them for democracy's sake during that war, a patriotism that must find its greatest strength in day to day continuous service in times of peace. Realizing the importance of saving for the world its principles of democracy for which they fought they have dedicated and each year re-dedicate themselves to the task of making America truly American and making good citizens of all our aliens, to educating the American people to the dangers and evils of that radicalism that seeks to undermine and destroy our Government, to building America for the future, a future of greatness she is destined to attain but which she can only attain through genuine education enlightenment and the practical, unselfish service of us all.

You will find every day of American Education Week devoted to this educational program. How long it shall take us to accomplish the purposes for which we are striving depends on you, fellow citizens. It is for you to determine how long it shall be before the people of this nation shall dwell together as a people united in thought, sympathies and community of purposes, cherishing one flag, one sepech, and one ideal of government.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Spencer Robinson, Mayor of the City of Glendale, designate the week of November 18 to 24, for the observance of American Education Week in this city and I recommend that every citizen visit the schools at least once during this week and that they co-operate with the local post of the American Legion and the school authorities in furthering the cause of education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, this 16th day of November, 1923.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.

WHY IS AMERICAN CONSTITUTION THE GREATEST WORK?

(From Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.)

Gladstone is said to have appraised the American Constitution as the "most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man." Recalling Mr. Gladstone's remarkable commentary inclines one to reflection on the quality of our Constitution. Why is the Constitution of the United States a great document?

It was framed at a convention which assembled in Philadelphia May 25, 1787, and completed its labors September 17, following. Many of the most noted Americans of that time were members of the convention. Among these were George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, James Madison, Alexander Hamilton, Roger Sherman, Robert Morris, James Wilson, and Charles Pickney. Perhaps we can see here a cause which operated to make the Constitution a great document—it was the work of three and a half months of some of America's greatest minds.

Briefly stated, the great provisions of the American Constitution are:—

1. It unites the separate States into a Nation, a union for the common good of all; it sets up a Government which derives its just powers from the consent of the governed.

It sets a balance between central Federal authority and the State governments which, though shaken at times, has been admirably maintained for nearly a century and a half.

3. It defines the three branches of government—legislative, executive, and judicial—with such clarity and effectiveness that serious encroachment by one branch upon another is next to impossible.

4. It provides for the making and enforcement of laws, not by "divine right" of king or by other superimposed authority, but by representatives of the people duly chosen by the people.

5. It provides for a judiciary designed to be independent, free from the hazards and changes of partisan politics, and subject to the least possible undue influence.

6. It guarantees to each individual all the rights of a free man, and especially guarantees the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; it insures religious freedom and freedom of speech and of the press.

7. It encourages industry and thrift, promotes equality of opportunity, elevates womanhood, and fixes on individual citizenship and the home as the proper foundations of organized society.

THRIFT

By Ethel Reeves, Grade B-5, Colorado School

Once upon a time there was a little boy, he was poor but he was earning money by doing errands for people. His mother had died and his father worked hard every day. His father was cruel to him, and beat him every time he did anything wrong. But he was thinking how to earn more money so he could get enough to eat. One day when he was walking along the street, he saw some newsboys selling papers. He wished he could get a job as a newsboy. "They have so many of those newsboys I don't think I could get that job. But I'll try," he said. And so the next day he went to the news office, and asked for a job. The man said, "We have enough now, but if you want work real badly I will give you a job." The boy was very glad that he had a job at last. He thanked the man and went home as fast as his legs would carry him. The man had said to be at his office at 8 o'clock sharp next morning. He was there on the dot. The man gave him some papers to sell and said: "Be sure you give them the correct change." The boy said, "I'll do my best." Then he went out into the street to sell his papers. He made friends with the other newspaper boys, and he found them very nice. The people bought more from him than the others and pretty soon he had his hand full of money. How happy he was. He knew he would have a fine supper that night. And so he did. He had a big supper; the biggest he had ever had. So every day he went on selling papers until he had made a lot of money, he put it in the big bank and when he grew up he was a rich man.

THRIFT

By Evelyn Patterson, Grade B-6, Acacia Avenue School

Once upon a time there were two boys who were very good friends. One boy was named Edward and one was named John.

Now, neither of these boys were rich, nor were they poor, but they both thought "How wonderful it would be to be rich."

Almost every day their father or mother would give them some pennies.

When anyone gave them money Edward would say "Let us go into the house and put the money in our banks."

But John would say, "O come on, and we will buy some candy. The next time we will save it." However, Edward made up his mind to save every penny he received. And so it went on, Edward saving and John spending.

When they grew up Edward was rich as he had wished but John was poor. Thus they lived their lives, Edward happy and with all he could wish for, but John penniless and sad.

Thrift is the beginning of success. It is not only applied to money matters but to everything in life—a person's time, his ability, his energy. This means a good and prudent living and careful habits of life. Thrift is scientific management of one's self, affairs, and money, and possible expenditure of life's.. resources.

Money is a great thing. Why spend money recklessly? This act of saving is the result of wise spending. A prominent business man said, "Give me the youth who saves to make the man worth while."

Saving is a habit which builds character. Is it the man who has money in the bank who is always laid off? No, he is not the man who will be turned down. He does not need your help, you need him.

If children had a business education, they would be cunning schemers. People would not be ignorant, if they were thrifty. Many homes, upon entering, show signs of thrift, but upon going into the back appear ill-kept with cheap furnishings.

Energy is strength by which one does things. A thrifty person does things. A thrifty person does not waste his energy. Put foolishness aside, put thrift and energy into yourself.

Foolishness costs us our money, our ability, our time, our energy and our life. Many busy people are shameful wasters of time and energy, simply because they do the lower things when higher ones are possible. They read a poor book when they might read a better one; they squander time with ordinary purposeless companions when better ones are possible.

When you start out in the morning just try to picture to yourself the wonderful value of that day. Just think what you would make if you knew you would never have another—what every minute would mean to you!

RELATION BETWEEN HOME AND SCHOOL OR, CO-OPERATION OF HOME AND SCHOOL

By MRS. EUSTACE B. MOORE
President of Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations

Between the home set up in Eden, and the home before us in eternity, stand the homes of earth in a long succession.

It is therefore important that our homes should be brought up to a standard in harmony with their origin and destiny.

Here are empire's primal springs," here are the church and state in embryo; here all improvements and reforms must rise.

For national and social disasters, for moral and financial evils, the cure begins in the household.

In no case could legislation and commerce lead back a day of honesty and plenty, unless the family were their active co-worker.

Where souls and bodies are nourished, where fortunes are builded, and brains are trained, there must be a focus of all moral and physical interests.

Homes should be happy, orderly and beautiful.

Homes should know how to preserve health, train children, make, save as well as spend money.

Every day has its full share of troubles, but, by troubles well met, we grow stronger. We rise "By stepping stones of our dead selves, to higher things."

How then shal the home fulfill the great duty lying before it—the duty of restoring confidence and energy, of eradicating evils, of bring much out of little.

The home must lay hold on moral principles and their practical outworking.

There is no thought more beautiful and far-reaching than the oneness of the family; here man is indissolubly bound to his fellows. The individual is solitary, but "God setteth the solitary in families."

"In Childhood's hour, with careless joy,
Upon the stream we glide,
With Youth's bright hopes,
We gayly speed,
To reach the other side."

And so, as we have endeavored to portray a home—a real home, we will now call to your hearts and minds the great need of good schools. Education is necessary to bring out the best there is in every child—the wealthy can pay for their children's education, but the poor cannot, and thus we see the great need of free schools, also that our schools be equipped to teach every branch of education.

Our school teachers should know their pupils and understand their home environments.

Teachers should seek to find out where the pupils need help on moral lines—also, they should teach good government and patriotism to the children. In many of our homes are foreigners, who do not know our laws and constitutions. Let every little child be so instructed in the schools, that he can carry the message into his home.

"A little child shall lead them."

Our schools should look into the literature used in homes.

Homes where books are not known and good literature is not present are not proper homes.

A home without books argues at once a lack of educative influences.

Of all the influences about us in the present age, perhaps none is so largely educative as that of reading; read we must and will; it is the passion of the present age. And here comes the questions what to read and what not to read. And just here comes in the cooperation of home and school—our P.-T. A. proposes to help the teachers search out the home needs, and also, help mothers and fathers to get acquainted with the teachers. Let these parents once learn that teachers are just earth beings like themselves and that they want to help their children; and that spirit of antagonism will be broken down. Sympathy will blow in and harmony will prevail. Homes are empty without schools—and schools need the cooperation of the homes. "United we stand, divided we fall."

By referring to the dictionary we find that thrift or thrifty means to be frugal or economical. It does not mean to be miserly but to be careful and saving of one..'s earnings.

The American people were in the beginning a very thrifty race but seem to be getting farther and farther away from this idea, until today we have many more spendthrifts than those who are thrifty.

One of the first lessons my parents taught me was to be thrifty, and I believe that every boy and girl should learn this lesson early in life. Every boy and girl should have some method of saving their earnings. The thrift cards which a local bank is distributing among schools is a good method to use.

We can be thrifty in many other ways. We can practice thrift by being careful of our food, clothing and school materials. A thrifty person is not a needly person.

THRIFT

Doran Street School, A-5

Many pupils think that "thrift" means a saving of money only. But there are many other meanings for "thrift" 'besides this one.

We can be thrifty in our homes by being careful of food, clothing and the care of our homes. If we asked for more food than we can eat and it has to be thrown away, we are not being saving. By buying clothes that are suitable for the places we wish to wear them and by being careful of them we can be very saving in this respect. We can also be careful to realize the value of them. Now we are beginning to think about them, and are trying to save them.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Yesterday was a memorable day to all residents of the La Crescenta valley, from the begining of the Sunday school rally at the new Community church in the morning to the close of the impresive services of the dedication of the new edifice in the afternon. The program for the Sunday school rally included a short talk by C. Simpson on Co-operation. Mrs. C. Scott secretary of the Sunday school work of the Presbytery of Los Angeles, made an interesting talk on her work. The program given by the children added much to the pleasure of the morning. The dedicatory services of the Community church were held at 3 o'clock and opened with a piano and violin duet by Mrs. A. McDaniel and Mrs. Charles Bickel. Assisting Rev. H. A. Kelso, pastor, were Rev. C. Davenport of Hemet, former pastor of the Community church; Rev. G. Wadsworth, secretary of the board of extension of Los Angeles, and Rev. E. Landis of Elsinore. The music by the choir was under the able direction of Allen McDaniel. Mrs. C. W. Angier was pianist. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Dr. Robert Freeman of Pasadena. "Ethusiasm" was his theme. The Bible of C. Newell, a member of the church, who passed away during the past year, was dedicated to the church during the services. The sum of $1500 was subscribed to the building fund of the church yesterday afternoon. This leaves an indebtedness of $3500. A large gathering of people attended the services, many from surrounding towns. With the official dedication of the church comes to an end one year's hard work for the members of the congregation and the pastor, Rev. Kelso, whose untiring efforts have made the building of this church possible. Charles A. Creeth, a resident of La Crescenta, was the architect and he generously donated his services, not only drawing the plans, but also assisting Rev. Kelso in erecting a church which is a distinct asset to the entire La Crescenta valley.

The local schools are closed today, giving the instructors an opporunity to attend the teachers' institute in Glendale and incidentally giving the children an opportunity to attend Robinson's annual circus, which is camped on South Los Angeles avenue.

The evening of cards to be given Thursday at the school auditorium by the La Crescenta Woman's club promises to be one of the most pleasant events of the mid-week. It will be under the supervision of the entertainment committee, with Mrs. M. S. Collins, chairman. Admission will be 50 cents. Refreshments will be served and many attractive prizes given.

This evening Rev. H. A. Kelso and members of the Community church will hold a public reception to their friends in their new home, where an opportunity will be given to inspect the new church building. A musical program will be rendered during the evening under the supervision of Miss Marguerite Hauber.

Miss Florence Hamilton of Muncie, Ind., was the guest of her cousin, Miss Janet Culberson of East Michigan avenue for the weekend. Miss Hamilton is planning to spend the winter in Southern California.

MAKE NURSERY ATTRACTIVE ROOM

Always have the nursery bright and sunny. Do this if it means giving the baby the best room in the home. Of course the room should be simply furnished with only such articles as are necessary to the child's comfort but there is no reason why it cannot be attractive.

If we see someone throw something that is apt to catch the forest on fire, we ought to pick it up. In that way we can be saving in our forests. Are there not, then, many meanings for "thrift" besides the saving of money?

Do You Know What a Joint Account Is?

A JOINT ACCOUNT is one held in the names of two persons—usually a husband and wife, or a business partnership—both parties having the right to deposit or withdraw. Not only does this form of account provide a convenience to depositors during the life of both, but, since either has absolute right to withdraw all or any part of the funds on deposit at any time, legal complications which might otherwise be incurred by the death of one are completely eliminated for the survivor.

Joint accounts, as well as various other kinds to meet the requirements of our depositors, may be opened in the Savings Department of this Bank.

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment.

FRANCIS W. READ

With last Friday's football game, bringing the Central league championship to Glendale for 1923, the mind naturally wanders back to the earlier years of football in Glendale high school, and the record the Black and Red teams have made in years gone by.

The present championship is the third to be won by Gendale high under the direction of Coach Normal C. Hayhurst, in fact, the third since football was introduced here seven years ago. Previous to that time the gridiron game had not been permitted by the board of trustees. In the fall of 1917 the board reversed its decision and the first football team was formed by Coach Hayhurst, who had just taken up his duties as director of athletics in the high school. He was new to the school and to the players, and the players were new to football For that reason it is surprising that any kind of a team was developed. However, a very efficient gridiron machine was formed which, although it did not win the championship of the league, made a very creditable showing.

The next year the team started off in great shape. Most of the players of the previous season were back on the job, with a better understanding of football than they had the year before. Under the able and efficient direction of Coach Hayhurst the team won the Central league championship for 1918. The first of the post season games was with Redlands and resulted in defeat, putting the locals out of the running for the championship of Southern California. Southern California.

In 1919 the team was without the players who had won the 1918 championship. Consequently, the Glendale eleven did not make a strong showing and was not able to annex the pennant. However, many players were developed who helped to make the team of the next year.

The second championship came in 1920. Coach Hayhurst was able to develop a team that swept aside all opposition until it met Franklin. Then it met is first defeat, but this did not affect the league standings, and Glendale took the pennant. In the only post-season game Glendale fared rather badly, losing to Pomona high and dropping out of the race for the Southern California honors.

The next two years were rather bad. The team that won the second pennant graduated in June, 1921, and the following September there was not much left of the old team, consequently its record was rather unimpressive. In 1922 the game situation existed, but a few new faces came to the front late in the season. Although winning few games, a foundation was being laid for the coming year, as most of the men on the team were underclassmen.

The 1923 team has proved a record beater, having taken the championship of the Central league. No games have been lost and but one score, a safety by Franklin, has been made by the opponents. Prospects in the post-season games are bright.

Those who remember the Glendale teams of the past cannot forget the stars of the past years. Their names are many, and they have been successful in the college games. To Coach Hayhurst is due much credit. He came to Glendale in 1917 when the game was first played here, won a championship his second year, and has added three pennants in the space of seven years. He claims the University of Arizona as his alma mater.

CALTECH BIFFS SHERMAN INDIANS

Riverside, Cal., Nov. 19.—Sherman Institute Indians lost a hard fought game here Saturday to California Institute of Technology of Pasadena, by a score of 7 to 0.

Caltech's score was made in the first five minutes of play in the second quarter on a long forward pass, followed by a series of line bucks. The Indians' play was featured by long passes, and during the third quarter had the Caltech aggregation playing on the defensive, the ball being kept almost entirely in Caltech territory.

GREAT CARD FOR BOXING BOUTS TOMORROW

Local fight fans who attend the Glendale Athletic club bouts tomorrow night will see some of the best scraps that have been held in the local rings this season. The card for tomorrow is the best yet, according to Matchmaker Les Marston and those who attend will get their money's worth.

Sammy Waltz and Larry Smith, two of the best bantam weights in the country, will mix in the main event. They are both easterners of considerable repute in the boxing game, and both claim to have fought all of the near-champions of their weight. They will make things snappy when they get into action in the local ring.

Johnny Meyers of the Glendale fire department and Young Calhoun of Los Angeles will stage the semi-windup affair.

Billy Kelly and Joe Thompson will stage a battle before the local fans which is expected to be unusually good. Neither has appeared here before, but both are real scrappers. They are also 158 pounders. Jim Racer and Ted Rose will stage a return bout. Bert Gonzales and Otto Wallace will put on a scrap which is expected to be a good one. There will be a curtain raiser, the participants of which have not yet been announced.

CALIFORNIA BEATS WASHINGTON 9 TO 0

Andy Smith's Bears Too Smart for Hsukies; Nichols Stars

BERKELEY, Nov. 19 — Again hes the scorer recorded a victory for Andy Smith and his California Bears. This time the University of Washington was the victim. Outclassed and outplayed in every department of the game the full time except in the last few minutes of play, Baggy Bagshaw's Huskies fell before the University of California eleven by a score of 9 to 0 Saturday on the California Field. At no time in the game did the Purple and Gold show up well except when they carried the ball clear down to a the Bear 3-yard line on passes in the final quarter, only to have a pass intercepted. This was the only time the Huskies had the ball in their possession in California territory.

It was the last game to be played on the historic California field, where four years ago the first of the great California wonder teams was created. The new California stadium in Strawberry canyon will be dedicated this Saturday, when the Bruins meet Stanford. A crowd that taxed the seating capacity of the field witnessed the game.

Don Nichols, California fullback and captain, played the greatest game of football seen on the coast this year. Some say that Nichols beat Washington. True it is that without Nichols it would have required more than smartness to beat Washington. The whole story is summed up best in the figures of the game. Washington gained five years on punts returned, California gained 145. Don Nichols was playing safety for California. That tells what Nichols did.

Two trick plays gave California a score of 9 points. California played the smartest football seen on the coast this season. They outsmarted Bagshaw so bad that he was in agony the whole time. In the opening period the Bears pulled a play very similar to the fake drop kick formation they used against U. S. C. a week ago. Bill Blewett was sent into the game, presumably to kick a field goal. Instead of Blewett getting the ball and passing to Nichols, the big fullback received it from center on a drop kick formation, went through right tackle, and got away for a 25-yard run. On the next four downs the Bears failed to make the grade by the distance of one yard. Zeil punted from the Washington 10-yard line. Nichols ran the punt back, and after a couple of line plays Blewett stepped back to the 40-yard line and drop kicked the ball right through the goal posts for three points.

OXY GRIDDERS HUMBLE CUB ELEVEN

By LESTER P. GRAFIOUS

Occidental College in a fast game Saturday afternoon on Patterson Field, defeated the Southern Branch of the University of California by a 20 to 6 score. The Oxy team was minus its brilliant ends, Captain Spangler and Argue; Priaulx, center; Ebers, halfback, and Ridderhoff, fullback. Despite this fact, however, the team made a clean victory.

The Branch team put up a wonderful fight but could not withstand the Tigers' offensive. Captain Wescott of the Cubs played a sensational game. He was hurt early in the game but through sheer indomitable fighting instinct he led the Cubs on. In the first quarter the Branch kicked off and the Tigers soon had the best of it. The work of Hazeltine and Wheeler of Oxy was largely responsible for the victory. Gary, tackle, although a big man, showed himself to be one of the fastest men in the game.

In every play this man showed himself to be right there on the job, downing his man. Occidental made a field goal in the first period due to the hard holding of the Cub line. In the second period, however, they managed to get two touchdowns. Hazeltine, Oxy end, grabbed a long pass and ran for about forty yards. The ball then was carried through line bucks for a touchdown. Another touchdown was made just before the final whistle. The Cubs in the third period made a touchdown, but could not convert. The Tigers then made another field goal. The fourth period saw many substitutes on both sides put in and the game was a see-saw for the remainder of the last quarter. The ball was on the Branch's 30-yard line when the game was finished.

TROJANS WALLOP ARIZONA ELEVEN BY 69-6 SCORE

It takes a good defeat to put the Trojans in a position to win their next game. This was demonstrated earlier in the season when, defeated by Washington, they came back and licked Stanford, and again yesterday when they redeemed themselves for their defeat last week at the hands of California by handing the Arizona eleven a 69 to 6 trouncing. The game was staged at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

After an afternoon of real wild west wooliness, such as men from Arizona might well be expected to take delight in had the wooliness been registered on the right side of the score board, the University of Southern California Trojans were returned complete masters of their visitors from Tucson by a score of 69 to 6.

Coach Elmer Henderson gave the Wildcats both barrels, rolling up the largest score that a Cardinal and Gold eleven has piled up in more than two years. Although he started his entire second team the plucky little team from the desert town never had a chance. A brave fight in the third period gave them a touchdown and whatever solace they may find in the knowledge that they were able to score against Henderson's Pacific Coast conference machine.

While Arizona had not been expected to put up much of an attask against their heavier rivals, many had anticipated a more respectable showing on the defense. But there was virtually no defense there. The Trojans gained at will on any kind of a play, and the game was little more than a good workout in preparation for next Saturday's tilt with the University of Idaho.

STANFORD TAKES GRID GAME FROM IDAHO, 17 TO 7

Cardinals Win on Line Plunging and Passes

STADIUM, STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 19.—Displaying a versatile line-smashing and aerial game, Stanford university battered the University of Idaho team into submission, despite the latter's brilliant overhead game, and administered the first defeat of the season to the Vandals, with a 17-7 score here Saturday.

Stiver's spectacular passes and Fitzke's kicking and fleet end running marked Idaho's game, but they were not sufficient to overcome the persistent line plunging, criss-cross and delayed buck offensive with which Stanford marched up and down the gridiron.

Long passes gave Stanford their two opportunities for touchdowns in the first and fourth periods, and Cuddeback dropped a place kick over the goal in the third period.

Idaho displayed its greatest strength in the second period when the Vandals marched down the field through Stanford's territory twice, scoring the second time through a short pass.

In the second period Coach Kerr sent in a large number of substitutes, including Shipkey and Cravens, who had been injured Friday and were held in reserve. Ernie Nevers, Stanford's star fullback, was hurt in the second period, and replaced by Solomon. Nevers was given a big ovation when he left the field.

Campbell Stars

Deprived of the services of Nevers, their plunging and kicking ace, Stanford nevertheless came back strong in the third period, and after a brief exchange of kicks with Dwight punting, hammered through right and left guard for long gains, in which Captain Campbell, Solomon and Dennis figured in the execution of a a shifty criss-cross and a delayed buck and passed the pigskin on the 20-yard line, from which Cuddeback booted a place-kick squarely between the posts.

The lineup:

IDAHO (7)		STANFORD (17)
Nelson	L.E.	Thomas
Hausen	L.T.	Loomis
Goff	L.G.	Neill
Kline	C.	Baker
Tapper	R.G.	Faville

AUTO REPAIRING
"SO EASY"
Clutch Attachment for Chevrolet Cars
There is nothing so annoying or injurious as the constant grabbing of a clutch which has a tendency to loosen the mechanical parts from the radiator to the rear end and is extremely unpleasant to the ones riding in the car. After this grabbing has taken place for a short time there is a likilihood of its tearing the whole rear end out, which is an unnecessary expense if you will only realize the clutch of any car needs occasional attention. You will have a smooth, easy but positive action thereby saving yourself expensive repair bills and make riding a pleasure as the SO EASY makes a good clutch better.

POLA NEGRI

With Antonio Moreno, Kathlyn Williams and Gareth Hughes in the Paramount Super Production

"THE SPANISH DANCER"

The greatest picture Pola Negri ever apeared in—foreign or American. The fiery, dynamic personality of "Passion," flashing like a comet through reel upon reel of soul-touching nerve-tingling action. Thousands in the cast; colossal sets; blazing color and magnificent costumes. And a story of super-thrills and breathless melodrama. You'll want to see it again and again!

CHILDREN IN ARMOR SEEN AT T. D. & L. IN "SPANISH DANCER"

The first armor made for children in America is won by Dawn O'Day and a company of youthful knights mounted upon Shetland ponies in a scene of Pola Negri's new star picture, "The Spanish Dancer," a Herbert Brenon production for Paramount, which comes to the T. D. and L. theater again tomorrow.

From visored helmet to steel spurred boot, the young warriors are exact duplicates of the knights who once indulged in the dangerous sport of tournaments.

Riding gallantly to the charge across the lawns, Dawn O'Day leads the steel-clad warriors before a throne raised before Wallace Beery and Kathlyn Williams, who play the roles of Philip IV and Queen Isabelle of Spain. Antonio Moreno is featured opposite Miss Negri, in "The Spanish Dancer." Others among the particularly strong supporting cast are Gareth Hughes, Adolphe Menjou and Robert Agnew.

GATEWAY HAS THRILLER IN "ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

The love of romance and adventure, possessed by all persons no matter how prosaic their calling in life or how placid they may appear on the surface, will find an outlet in "The Isle of Lost Ships," which is the current feature at the Gateway theatre.

The locale of the tale is an "island" in the center of the Sargasso Sea, which is a tract in the North Atlantic ocean thickly covered with seaweed and kelp.

Sailors will tell you that many of the craft which have drifted into this "port of dead ships" contained human beings, and that they must still be alive, subsisting on the stores of wrecked boats which enter the "graveyard" yearly.

With such a vision to spur on his imagination, Crittenden Marriott wrote a novel about the "island," using as his chief characters a society girl, a detective and an escaped convict, who had been sentenced to the electric chair.

TOM MIX AND TONY ON DECK AT THE GLENDALE

Between shots on the William Fox lot in California, where Tom Mix was making his first special picture as the hero of "Soft Boiled," the two-fisted westerner whistled for Tony, his famous horse. A hundred yards distant, the horse was gazing. Instantly, at sound of the call, he raised his head, pricked his ears and as millions of audiences have seen him do on the screen, started to trot confidently in the direction from which the whistle had sounded.

Reaching a spot 50 feet from his master, Tony paused. He came to a halt. Gazing reproachfully upon Tom Mix, the animal swung about and faced others of the cast. Then, with a toss of his head, he turned about and galloped back to his original feeding place.

The reason? Tom Mix discarded his chaps and sombrero, his spurs and knotted bandanna in "Soft Boiled," for an upturned felt, a checkered hand-me-down suit of store clothes, spats, white shirt and horn rimmed spectacles. It is his first comedy role and the most unique part in which the famous film star ever appeared. "Soft Boiled" is at the Glendale theater again today.

MONTROSE NOTES

E. L. Jones was the honored guest at a surprise party given Thursday evening at his home just off Honolulu avenue. The occasion marked the recipient's birthday anniversary, and was celebrated by a number of his friends who came to spend the evening. A delightful birthday dinner was served by Mrs. Jones. Friends from Los Angeles and Glendale were invited to participate in the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Randall of San Diego were guests at the F. P. Ellis home on Brigg's avenue Sunday.

Those who were interested in the sale of half acre lots learned last Sunday that they would have to hurry if they would secure one of the lots which are situated on Altura and New York avenues. By 9 o'clock Sunday the entire tract of ten acres was sold out. Montrose and La Crescenta people surely appreciate the value of the beautiful hillside property in this vicinity.

Many Montrose people are planning to attend the card party to be given in the La Crescenta school auditorium Thursday evening. Bridge and five hundred will be played, and for those who do not wish to play other entertainment will be provided. They party is being given under the auspices of the Women's club for the benefit of the club building fund.

SOMETHING I CAN DO

There is something I can do,
There's a message I can send,
I can help him fight it through,
I can prove myself a friend.
There is something I can give,
Word or deed or sympathy,
I can earn the right to live
By the helpfulness of me.

There is comfort I can speak,
There is need that I can aid,
In the byways I can seek
For the fallen and afraid.
Mine to wonder not or dream,
Mine to fight some battle through,
Hidden now the way may seem,
There is something I can do.

Friend of mine, what be the load,
Let me know and understand;
On the hot and dusty road
Walk with me and hand in hand.
What the trial and the woe,
What the sorrow and the rue,
Let me hear and share and know—
There is something I can do.

SOUTH CALIFORNIA ATHLETIC CLUB PLANS STRUCTURE

Architects' plans for the first unit of eight structures for the Southern California Athletic and Country club's properties at Lake Elsinore have been accepted by the club's Elsinore-project building committee comprising H. G. Feraud, Henry L. Chase, Charles Malcom, D. W. Harvey and Walter Hempel.

These plans were prepared by the Engineering Service company of Los Angeles who will have supervision of all construction work at the lake. Detailed building specifications will now be rushed and contractors' bids called for about December 5, work to start by December 15 and buildings to be finished and turned over to the club in March, preparatory to a grand opening and golf tournament in April.

The main club building will have a frontage of 248 feet on Grand avenue along the western shore of the lake, and will be of most ornate type Spanish architecture, and thoroughly fireproof. Besides a large lobby there is a great hall and a dining room for 500 diners. The upper floor is exclusively for dormitories and will accommodate 150 persons. In the basement will be a commodious lunch-room to be open at all hours. On the lake side of the building will be a veranda 160 feet long by 25 fet wide, giving a wonderful view of the lake and the three great, snow-capped mountain peaks in this sunny valley.

Other construction work to begin at once consists of a pretty cottage as a residence for the club's manager, two dormitories for employees, garage to house 100 cars and parking space for 400 more, gate keeper's lodge, large bathhouse at the lake, 250-foot pleasure pier, hunting lodge and golf clubhouse. Medical sulphur and other baths are lavishly provided for. The hunting lodge is the re-modelled Lake Shore lodge, and will be a typical sportsman's resort. The club house at the golf course at the south end of the lake is on the knoll overlooking the course, with several smaller buildings for caddyhouse and golf equipment.

EUREKA, Cal., Nov. 1.—Three men reported to be resemble the bandits who dynamited a Southern Pacific train last month and killed four railroad men are being sought today by posses in Humboldt and Del Norte counties following the shooting and beating by the trio of Charles McCodey.

McCodey was fishing in the Klamath river yesterday when the bandits crept out of the brush nearby and attacked him. One shot was fired at him and the bullet grazed his head. After beating him into insensibility, the robbers took $90 and a watch from McCodey. District Attorney Davis of Del Norte county, after hearing McCodey's description of his assailants, said they undoubtedly were the Southern Pacific bandits for whom a search has been in progress in Northern California counties for several weeks.

YREKA, Cal., Nov. 1.—A vicious bull elk which had been chasing residents, killing cattle and damaging property was shot and killed today by Deputy Fish and Game Warden Lippincott. The bull charged Lippincott but he stopped its rush with a bullet behind the ear. When dressed the animal weighed 486 pounds.
